ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is a pleasure to be able to record a measure of thanks to many individuals who have directly or indirectly contributed to the completion of this thesis.

Many special warmest thanks are due to Prof. Dr. Susumu Tateyama, the head of the Department of Veterinary Pathology. He provided me the constant encouragement, precious support and excellent guidance and working condition. I would like to express my special warmest and sincere thanks to Assoc. Prof. Dr. Ryoji Yamaguchi, one of my supervisors. He gave me the excellent brainy guidance, useful advice and unreserved supervision. I am likewise indebted to him because of his sincere encouragement, kindness and endless help not only in my study but also in my tough life in Japan. I deeply appreciated his patience to discuss with me, to introduce me research works from the first place and to solve many continuous difficult steps of my experiments. My gratitude is also due to Prof. Dr. Kai Kazushige for his excellent advice and guidance and reviewing my manuscripts. I also would like to express my special sincere thanks to Assist. Prof. Dr. Kazuyuki Uchida, who is skillful and brainy. He provided me the excellent guidance and sincere advice to overcome my difficulties in my study and in my life.

Thanks to Dr. Atsushi Kawabata, my tutor, my neighbor friend for 4 years of PhD course, for his kindness and precious help. It would be wrong to fail to mention the numerous seen or unseen contributions made by all students of Department of Veterinary Pathology over the years. To list every name of all students would greatly weary the reader, yet to omit any seems akin to gross ingratitude. You know who you are and I am forever grateful. Still, special thanks must go to Mr. Kondo Hiroaki, Mr. Ueda Toshiki, Mr. Fujimoto Seichiro, Dr. Okano Kumiko, Dr. Nibe Kazumi, Dr. Hara Yae, Dr. Nikawa Mitsuko, Dr. Otsuka Yuko, Dr. Yasumoto Mayumi, Dr. Yokoyama Seiko, Dr. Kiga Yurie,

Dr. Inomata Asuka, Dr. Kato Kouichiro, Dr. Furuya Yoriko, Dr. Kita Chiaki, Dr. Maekawa Erika, Dr. Okita Kouji, Mr. Oda Madoka, Satou Kenji, Mr. Hiromatsu Riki, Mis. Funamoto Miwako, Dr. Suchanit Ngamkala, Mr. Suzuki Takayuki, Mis. Onchi Miwako, Mis. Kinoshita Yurie, Mis. Hashimoto Naho, Mr. Matsumoto Yusuke, Dr. Nataya, Mr. Tran Trung Kien. They always offered a friendly atmosphere and made me feel like in my own country, without their cooperation and useful help in many ways, no such research as my own is possible.

I also would like to express my special sincere thanks to all teachers and staff in the Veterinary Faculty, University of Miyazaki for their encouragement, kindness and precious help.

I would like to acknowledge our gratitude to other institutes and laboratories that have a role in completing this thesis. They were including the United Graduate School of Veterinary Science, Yamaguchi, Miyazaki, Kagoshima and Tottori University, the Medical school of Miyazaki University, the animal hospital of Miyazaki University, the library of Miyazaki University, the foreigner office, the members of MUFSA and all the university service department in general. To all staff and students of the Department of Veterinary Pathology, Microbiology and Infectious diseases, of Faculty of Veterinary Sciences, of Hanoi Agricultural University and of Educational Ministry in Vietnam for their precious encouragement, support, confidence and advice. I am very thankful to Ministry of Education Science and Culture of the Japanese (Monbukagakusho) for granting me the scholarship to study in Japan. To all-Vietnamese and Japanese friends and my friends from other countries for their encouragement and help. I would like to thank to Dr. Yukuharu Kobayashi, Adotech Company and Sagawaki sciences center for their financial supports for some parts of my thesis

I would like to deeply express my warmest and sincere thanks to all members of my family and my family in-law, without their endless encouragement and love for me, I would never achieve my study in Japan.

I am greatly and profoundly indebted to my husband Tran Thanh Quang and my son Tran Duc Minh for their understanding, patience and silent sacrifice during all my four years and a half study spent far away from them, without their loving support and sincere encouragement, it is impossible for me to maintain positive approach and achieve my study. I could tell them this achieve is also theirs, but I suspect in their hearts they know this already.
